

1967 Pontiac Widetracks Are Unveiled

Pontiac's volume-selling Catalina series is represented in the top photo above by the 1967 hardtop coupe with the Ventura option. The Catalina's distinctive styling, interiors and colors, many standard equipment safety items and a wide selection of options has made this Pontiac one of the industry's largest selling cars. The Pontiac Le Mans series is represented in the lower photo by the hardtop coupe. Separate styling features on the side, front and rear gives each Le Mans model a new and different look. The new models will be shown to the public for the first time September 29th.

Faubus Plans Program for State Parks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov.

Orval Faubus approved a $3.1 million crash state park program largely financed with federal funds Tuesday, saying there was every indication President Johnson intends to freeze federal construction money.

Faubus said he had been asked to attend a White House meeting on planned cutbacks in federal aid Friday, but he said he didn't plan to attend. Instead, he said he would send a list of the state's most urgent construction needs and ask that these be approved.

These are additional construction at the Arkansas Children's Colony at Conway and a proposed state trade school at Camden, he said. One would reduce the list of mentally retarded children waiting for admission, the other will train workers in electronic and other highly skilled professions to fill an industrial gap, Faubus said.

Faubus said the state Publicity and Parks Commission has qualified for Economic Development Agency (EDA) aid for expansion and improvement of the state park system.

Since the EDA money can't be shifted to the more needed Colony and trade school projects, the governor said, he wants the park expansion begun before any federal freeze order is handed down by the President.

The Arkansas projects include a new state park near Marianna in the St. Francis National Forest

Peace Talks Are Termed Political

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans discount the political impact of President Johnson's pre-election trip to the Manila summit conference of leaders of nations battling Communist forces in Viet Nam.

They believe the meeting offers little hope of Viet Nam peace initiatives.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen gave this GOP viewpoint in an interview: "You're not going to stop the war there at this point."

Dirksen, who has supported the President's course in Southeast Asia, indicated he suspects the seven-nation Manila meeting in mid-October might wind up with a promise for the extension of the "Great Society" to all of Asia.

"That is where we Republicans will come in," he said. "We will want to know how it is proposed to finance an extension of the Great Society benefits to the whole world."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said in a prepared Senate speech that while the meeting is desirable as a show of unity over Viet Nam policy, "it would be unfortunate if the Manila conference, like the Honolulu conference, promised much and accomplished little."

"The gap between the reforms pledged at Honolulu and the reforms carried out by the Saigon government still remains embarrassingly large," he said. "Therefore, I urge the President to clarify his objectives and to make sure they are attainable, and not to raise expectations that cannot be fulfilled."

He said the Communists' rejection of recent U.S. peace overtures may result in "mounting pressures for escalation of force in Viet Nam."

Dirksen told a news conference that unless there is some "awful blunder" at Manila, he does not believe the President's visit to Asia will affect the Nov. 8 congressional election results.

"I think the people have made up their minds (about Viet Nam), their views have hardened and I don't believe any last-minute developments will change their minds," he said.

Katzenbach's Nomination Is Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has temporarily blocked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's approval of Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach's nomination as undersecretary of state.

The committee approved the nomination Tuesday. But the Minnesota Democrat, a committee member, objected later that a quorum was not present when the action was taken.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark.,

committee chairman, said McCarthy also told him he had an important question he wanted to ask Katzenbach. McCarthy's objections will force the committee to recall Katzenbach at another hearing, which was not immediately set.

Later, McCarthy told newsmen he wanted to question Katzenbach about a weekend newspaper column by Howard K. Smith.

He said Smith wrote that McCarthy had gone to St. Louis to make a speech for a fee when his vote was needed on motions to end the civil rights debate. McCarthy said he wanted to ask Katzenbach, who is attorney general as chief administration lobbyist for the bill, whether the Justice Department gave Smith that information.

McCarthy said he had postponed the St. Louis speech. He was present in the Senate and voted to both cloture motions.

Before McCarthy raised his objections, Katzenbach had been but a step away from prompt confirmation for the State Department's No. 2 post as successor to George W. Ball, who has resigned.

Katzenbach testified before Fulbright's committee Tuesday and his nomination was expected to be brought to the Senate floor without delay.

He told the committee he fully supported U.S. foreign policy. And he expressed high admiration for Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Senate leaders have predicted Katzenbach will be confirmed by a wide margin.

Georgia to Elect New Governor

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Georgia Democratic gubernatorial campaign ends today with voters choosing between former Gov. Ellis Arnall and businessman Lester Maddox, exponents of widely opposing political views, particularly on racial matters.

The victor after the polls close tonight and the returns are tabulated will meet Rep. Howard (Bo) Callaway, Georgia's lone Republican congressman and the first GOP candidate for governor in this era, in the Nov. 8 election.

Maddox, 50, made news two years ago when he sold his cafeteria rather than integrate it, as required by the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Negroes were chased away with ax handles and a waved pistol.

Arnall, 59, served in the governor's office 20 years ago in a reform administration in which he successfully fought to revoke a Ku Klux Klan charter and lowered the voting age from 21 to 18.

Maddox has attacked Arnall via the national administration. Arnall has hit Maddox's actions at his restaurant.

Of Democratic concern in today's election is the possibility Georgia Republican, unhampered by party registration, will be at the polls to vote for Maddox with the idea he would be a weaker opponent for Callaway. Since Callaway was nominated by petitions bearing more than 120,000 names, Republicans are free to vote in the Democratic primary runoff.

Maddox and Arnall eliminated four other candidates in the primary two weeks ago. Arnall led the six-man field by polling 231,480 votes. Maddox got 185,672.

Although the word "negro" has appeared little in campaign speeches, the racial issue has been an undercurrent. Arnall has taken a moderate stand. Maddox has been firmly segregationist.

CHATTER

By: "Bill"
If there is any one thing we like about fall more than anything else, it is the feeling of going things. The lazy summer days are gone and you have that "up and at 'em" feeling... there are places to go and things to do, and you want to get with it!

For instance... we just sold the most beautiful Galarie knit, with gloves and hat to match, to the president of one of the local clubs. We are not going to mention names but she came in and said she wanted to look her best and then some... naturally we wanted to help and how! Our next customer wanted a warm coat for football games, one of the La Sport Knit's with Taffeta lining completely reversible that could take the weather and yet look young and smart. We have a beautiful selection, priced from $26.00 up. The cocktail dress we sold for the convention in Chicago was a white Jonathan Logan simple sheath with a touch of Janie jewelry. Stunning! We have others in color.

The Bankers' convention in San Francisco calls for a Duploxi silk dress, one that can be worn for both day and evening. If you want something smart, feminine and practical at the same time, try on a Jeanne Durrell... they have it! A customer who is flying down to Florida for a few weeks before the season starts, would like some knits in bright colors, like the Carlye's Dacron. They are priced at $40.00 up and are the smartest yet. It is a busy life we all lead and we would like to help you be ready. Shop today for your future needs. The place....

Castro Tells How on Revolution

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro says you have to know what you're doing in order to run a successful revolution. His remarks were broadcast recently by Havana Radio.

The Cuban prime minister was asked how it is that armed revolutionary forces in other Latin-American lands have not won any outstanding victories. Castro replied: "Some political leaders don't know anything about technique. They don't know the strategy of armed conflict and worse, they are trying to direct it with the methods of small-time political committees."

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Rain-wear over the years took the giant step from the yellow slicker to the all-weather coat. Now it goes a step further.

The International Coat is one that rain or shine, here or abroad, will look right for lunch, cocktails or the theater.

A group of these coats, called Silk Poufs, weigh only a pound and a half and can be rolled up for packing and emerge without a wrinkle. They are in silk broadcloth, stitched and tucked, with a downy interlining that provides warmth without bulk.

A Descent Into Oblivion

PURSUIT. By Betty Morgan. Houghton Mifflin. $4.95.

This is an account of a psychotic alcoholic's descent into the depths of oblivion. Not in the neurotic atmosphere of a modern megalopolis, but in the brooding Deep South of 1937.

It is the story of Ned Hughes, the last decadent sprig of a long line of plantation owners in Mississippi. It begins when, at 47, he stops putting around in New Orleans as a college instructor and returns to the home base to look after Lorraine.

The latter is his illegitimate son, the result of a 1920 alliance with a frivolous cousin — a scandal that still leaves the Ingles family ostracized in the whole county. Lorraine is a frail, dull-witted boy whom Ned had long abandoned to the Negro hired hands, and the boy has a fixation about trying to enter a seminary.

Ned becomes obsessed with the idea of converting this crude boy into an heir and master of the plantation. He finds that Anna, an impoverished friend of his youth, has a fresh young daughter named Annabella, and schemes to bring Lorraine and Annabella toward marriage.

The scheme boomerangs; Lorraine forms an attachment to middle-aged Anna and Ned marries the adolescent Annabella to keep her available for Lorraine. Then blind fate intervenes by striking Lorraine with a fatal disease.

The bare summary of the plot cannot begin to convey the impact of the novel. In this macabre situation, the book is a carefully woven psychological study of a weakening mind, disintegrating step by step, regressing pitifully under the eyes of a tight little circle of white and Negro participants.

This is Mrs. Morgan's debut as a novelist, and a striking one. It is a literary novel, in the sense that its splendid writing skill will stir well-deserved appreciation among other writers. It also is a regional novel, in the sense that its whole viewpoint is associated with the primitive patterns of the old South. In its own haunting way, it is a late blooming, fascinating flower of a lost world of the past.

STYLISH PRINCESS Anne, 16, is beginning to follow in the fashionable footsteps of her aunt, Princess Margaret.

A Look Into The Future

CHANGE AND HABIT. By Arnold Toynbee. Oxford U. Press. $5.50.

Toynbee, having long sharpened his preception in the perspective of history, looks forward to the future in this book.

He takes a calm view of the frightening possibilities of the atomic age, and optimistically estimates that mankind will survive the threat of irreversible doom from fission and fusion.

Not that it will be anything but a close squeak. The author's basic tenet is that as technology rapidly narrows the choice down to either political unification or mass suicide, men will break the habits of thousands of years and concede enough social changes to permit survival. These are only habits (war-making among them) and not built-in instincts.

he asserts — habits that are tough to break, but reversible. He foresees an age when the habit of nationalism will be modified enough (but no more) to permit the organization of at least two world-authorities, one for the control of atomic energy and the other for the production of food for an enormous population.

One of his key chapters is "Is a World-wide World-State Feasible?" He concludes that a minimum of world government is both advisable and attainable. Fortunately for us, he says, "the crucial leap in mankind's social history," from "societies based on personal relations exclusively to societies based on impersonal relations as well" was accomplished some 5,000 years ago. If the individual citizen can get used to political entities containing thousands of people, he argues, he can get used to others with millions of people.

In the final section, "The Impact of Technology on Life," Toynbee explores some of the horrors of future society, in which urbanization, congestion and automation will lead to regimentation and boredom.

Dodgers Up Lead, Six Games Left

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Things are a little bit better than they were this morning," Manager Walter Alton said Monday night after his Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to 2½ games with six left.
"Well, we're a half game better than we were yesterday," Alton said Tuesday night after a 2-0 victory over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead to three games with five to go.
"I'd say we're in slightly better shape than we were before the game," one might expect Alton to say tonight if the Dodgers increase their lead to 4½ games with four to go.
Chances are Alton would be more positive than he usually is if the Dodgers clinch their second straight pennant tonight.
The Dodgers' triumph Tuesday night reduced their magic number to three, meaning any combination of Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses totalling three would give the Dodgers the pennant.
The second-place Pirates, who were rained out Tuesday night, play Philadelphia twice tonight, and the Dodgers play the Cardinals once.
In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3. Rain also washed out Houston at Cincinnati and Chicago at New York.

UNDERRATED? A lot of the experts say Butch Byrd of the Buffalo Bills is one of the finest defensive backs in the American Football League.

Mays Going Down With a Battle

By RON SPEER
ATLANTA (AP) — Willie Mays isn't going down without a fight, but the San Francisco center fielder says the Los Angeles Dodgers have about clinched the National League pennant.

g'i think the Dodgers have about got it wrapped up," Mays said after driving in four runs in the Giants' 6-3 victory over Atlanta Tuesday night which kept San Francisco's fleeting pennant hopes alive.
"The Dodgers have only five games left and they are three in front of the Pirates, which makes it pretty tough to beat them," said Mays, who tied a handful of records with his 36th home run of the year which drove in three runs.
The blast and a run-scoring single in the seventh boosted Mays' career batting total to 1,503, making him the 14th big leaguer to pass the 1,500 mark.
Mays' RBI total for the year climbed to 101, giving him a tie for the National League mark of driving in at least 100 runs eight straight years, and a tie for the league mark of driving in 100 runs 10 times in his career.
His hitting kept the Giants four games behind the Dodgers, and pulled them within one game of the second-place Pirates.

Minnesota moved to within one-half game of the second-place Tigers behind Jim Perry's three-hit pitching. Harmon Killebrew hit his 37th homer for the Twins while Zolito Versalles drove in two runs with a double.
Ken Berry singled home Tommie Agee with the only run of the game for Chicago's opening-game victory over Boston. Berry's hit was only the fifth off Lee Stange.
But the Red Sox, who ended their season unusually early, came back in the second contest as Tony Conigliaro tripled home one run, scored the other when Don Buford fumbled George Scott's grounder.

Johnson Is Pro Player of the Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There is something about Cleveland's Municipal Stadium that brings out the best in Charley Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I don't know what it is, but we all feel good here," Johnson told staffer Lou Mio after passing the Cards to a 34-28 victory over the Browns Sunday. "It's easy for everyone to get in the right frame of mind coming here."

The right frame of mind for Johnson consisted of throwing three touchdown passes, completing 11 of 20 for 218 yards. It was enough to earn him recognition by The Associated Press as Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The Colts' Alvin Haymond was named the Defensive Player of the Week for his tackles, interception, safety blitzes and punt runbacks against the 49ers.

on stage, I'll wrestle it there."

An Omaha Indian from Wisconsin who learned to wrestle alligators from a Seminole cousin, was with another exhibit at the fair.

It took Indian George Greendeer 10 minutes to get the 6-foot, 165-pound gator out of the water. Then Winders took over and bested the beast.

"I can't go in the water with my leg," he said, "but if I can get someone to put the alligator

Bobcats Are Unbeaten in Conference

Only three teams still maintain unbeaten records in Div. 4AA Conference play. The Crossett Eagles, pre-season favorite, leads the list with a 3-0 mark. Camden's Panthers and Hope's Bobcats follow with 2-0 marks.

Judging from results of the past two weeks there is still a strong possibility that no team can get thru their schedule undefeated. Results last week: Fairview 13 Warren 6; Crossett 33 Magnolia 7; Hope 19 Smackover 12. Non-loop play: Malvern 6 Catholic HI 0; Camden 21 Fordyce 0; Prescott 19 Arkadelphia 0.

Games this week will find Warren traveling to Crossett. The Lumberjacks must win to stay alive in the 4AA race. Hope risks its undefeated loop record against Malvern. The Leopards upset Catholic HI last week, Camden travels to Arkadelphia, and Magnolia motors to Smackover. Fairview hosts Gurdon.

The Eagles of Crossett continue to impress. Last week they trailed 7-6 at halftime at Magnolia but then came on strong to win 33-7. The Eagles lead the 4AA loop in Net Yards Rushing with 1,075 in four games. Hope is second with 770 yds., and Fairview third with 707 yds.

On Defense the Eagles are equally tough as they have given up but 116 yards to four opponents. Malvern is second and Fairview is third.

Camden leads the league in Net Yards Passing with 530 yards. Smackover is second and Fairview third. Defense against passing Arkadelphia has allowed the fewest yards with Hope and Smackover following.

Camden's Dennis Harris caught three touchdowns passes last week to take over the Individual Scoring lead with a total of 36 points for the season thus far. J. Riley of Crossett is second with 30 along with Hope's Dan Turner.

R. Riley of Crossett leads the Extra Point kickers with 11.

The Standings:

Team	W	L
Crossett	3	0
Camden	2	0
Hope	2	0
Fairview	2	1
Malvern	1	1
Warren	0	1
Smackover	0	2

Baltimore Names St. for Robinson

By GORDON BEARD
BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson had a Baltimore street temporarily named in his honor this week. The slugger outfielder of the American League champion Orioles hopes the feeling behind it is more permanent.

"I don't like two-faced people," Robinson said today. "I don't like people to act nice to my face and then stab me in the back. I'd rather have them come right out and tell me how they feel."

Robinson is candid in his conversation, freely speaking his mind, and expects the same from others. Perhaps they're why he didn't mind — at least understood — the racial slurs directed at him as a minor league player 12 years ago.

That was in 1954, when Robinson became the third Negro player on the Columbia, S.C., team in the Sally League.

"Actually, it wasn't too bad — especially in Columbia," Robinson said. "But there was quite a bit of yelling from the stands in Macon and Augusta, Ga. It was the first time I had played ball in the South and it took awhile to get used to. Even so, it was better than I anticipated."

As late as last February, Robinson was confronted by an anti-Negro feeling in Baltimore after he was obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds.

Robinson said his representative, searching for a house while the Orioles were in spring training, "ran into opposition when some people found out who the house was for."

A house finally was located in a changing neighborhood, now predominantly Negro. It was there that Cedardale Road was changed to Robinson Road on Monday.

FOLDS FOR THE FUTURE
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Coach Norm Van Brocklin says Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota's scrambling quarterback, wouldn't have made it as a running back.

"Tarkenton wouldn't have been a tough enough runner," says Van Brocklin. "He folds as soon as he's hit, which is a good thing because it keeps him from serious injury."

Tarkenton has carried the ball 231 times for 1,517 yards in his five National Football League seasons.

HOOPLE'S CRYSTAL BALL

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

The Original Drawback

Egad, friends, pigskin prognostication is a perilous profession indeed. There was, for instance, great consternation among my staff last Saturday when downtrodden Ohio U., winless since 1964, walloped Boston College. And Oregon State bounced back from a humiliating 41-0 defeat to trounce classy Iowa, 17-3!

Undaunted by such amazing form reversals, your Fearless Forecaster has prepared a flawless card for you this week.

The Hoople System sees most of the contests going according to the coaches' game plans, with the favored eleven finishing on top, the major exception being the Illinois-Michigan State meeting. The Fighting Illini, who have shown improvement every weekend, will prevail over the visiting Spartans, 28-22, in a torrid struggle—har-rumph!

In a pair of battles that promise to be spine-tingling all the way, I predict the Air Force will score its first-ever victory over Navy's midshipmen, 16-14, and mighty Mississippi will stem Alabama's Crimson Tide, 17-15.

At Evanston, Ill., Terrence Hanratty, who has proved himself a worthy successor to those famed Irish quarterbacks—Bertelli, Lujack and Carideo—of yesteryear, will lead the Notre Dammers past Northwestern, 38-8.

Figures TCU Will Lose to Arkansas

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you think the day will come when the football forecaster will be replaced by a computer?
Perhaps the electronic equipment should have been used last week when the figures were 45 correct picks in 60 decisions for .750. That raised the season's totals to 75-27 for .735.

Turning on the human think tank for this weekend's games: Michigan State over Illinois — Illinois couldn't win when their top back, Cyril Pinder, was well so how can they triumph with him on the injured list? Clint Rones, Spartan rusher, averaging six yards on each carry.

UCLA over Missouri — Beban acts like a B-bomb. Charlie Brown, who does a lot of the playing for Missouri, is all right. Your television bit for the day.

Mississippi over Alabama — For no reason at all except that Mississippi hasn't beaten Alabama since 1910, and it is time for a change. Ole Miss has won from two tough foes, Alabama warmed up by beating Louisiana Tech.

Notre Dame over Northwestern — The Irish battery of Hanratty-to-Seymour should get the job done.

Southern California over Oregon State — Too many Trojans. Nebraska over Iowa State — Those Nebraska linemen are so big that the seven-man offense line has to crowd together to keep from going out of bounds.

Arkansas over Texas Christian — TCU had hopes of winning its first three games — Nebraska, Ohio State and Arkansas. But the Horned Frogs lost the first two and also will lose the third.

Michigan over North Carolina — The Big Ten club will rely on Dick Vidmer.

Georgia Tech over Clemson — Jimmy Addison, the Clemson quarterback, can't pull off miracles on successive week-ends.

Tennessee over Rice — The Volunteers' only weakness is at end.

Ohio State over Washington — The Buckeyes now have an air attack plus their usual supply of power runners.

Purdue over South Methodist — Bob Griese won't be hemmed in again.

Penn State over Army — In the usual squeaker.

Dave Stallworth, 6-foot-7 forward for the New York Knickerbockers, was one of three rookies to score more than 1,000 points in the National Basketball Association last season.

Six Distinct Car Lines for Chevrolet in 1967

Five 1967 Chevrolet models appear to be standing at attention as the CAMARO, newest member of the family, makes its introductory bow to the public (foreground, CAMARO Super Sport). While each Chevrolet model has distinctive styling motifs, the all new CAMARO features a new approach to the "long hood-short deck" design so successfully introduced to U.S. buyers by the Corvette. All Chevrolet-built passenger cars go on public display at dealers' September 29.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

Peace in Viet Nam is still a dim hope but there is increasing evidence that Russia is again maneuvering quietly to bring the United States and Ho Chi Minh's government to a conference in Geneva.

Only two months ago, Soviet Premier Kosygin told President de Gaulle and the prime ministers of Britain and India that he will make no peace moves without first getting the approval of North Viet Nam.

What made him change his mind? According to diplomats from East Europe, the Hanoi regime has asked Moscow to explore the possibility of peace negotiations on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreement.

North Viet Nam's President Ho Chi Minh, who received his training as a Communist in Moscow, was always pro-Russian and anti-Chinese. It has long been known in international Communist circles that he does not trust Mao Tse-tung.

However, until Communist North Korea, the Japanese Reds and other Asian Communist parties came out openly against Mao's suicidal policy of revolutionary brinkmanship, the North Vietnamese had to play a cautious game in their relations with their powerful Chinese neighbor.

Ho Chi Minh's hands were tied by a pro-Chinese faction in Hanoi which included such powerful men as Premier Pham Van Dong and Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

What makes Russia's renewed peace offensive even more significant is the fact that it comes after a secret visit to Moscow by Van Dong and Giap and after the elections in South Viet Nam in which the Viet Cong were repudiated.

But there is still another reason, which overshadows all others, for Moscow's decision to resume the role of an honest peace broker. In the view of the East European diplomats, relations between Russia and Red China have reached a point of no return.

Shortly before his fall from power, Russia's ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev was ready to break completely with Peking. But his uneasy successors, Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Kosygin, tried desperately to patch up their relations with Mao.

Mao, for whom "Sovietism" and "revisionism" represent a betrayal of the true Marxist-Leninist revolution, refused to play their game. Instead, he launched a widespread purge of China's Red elite which, among other things, was designed to eradicate all real or potential pro-Russian elements in China.

While the Soviet leaders were playing for time, Mao, for reasons known only to him, decided to force the final break with Russia.

This is the real historic significance of the Chinese purge and the unprecedented rampage of the teen-aged "Red Guards," under Mao's benign smile.

World communism is now split irrevocably into two hostile camps.

ASC Seeks Best Men for Committee

A call for the "best men available" to serve on the ASC community committees was issued today by R. B. Arnold, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County committee, States of nominees for membership on ASC community committees soon will be established at the ASCS county office.

"The committee system is the backbone of farm programs," the Chairman declared. "Its responsibilities include the conservation of natural resources, the stabilization of agricultural commodities, and price-support activities which protect and improve farm income. We need the best possible cross-section of farmers to insure effective administration of the various measures."

In Hempstead County, Mr. Arnold explained, about 800 farmers took part last year in one or more programs administered by the ASC committees. Funds disbursed under the Committees' supervision amounted to $443,775. Of this amount, $167,765 was for price-support loans aimed at increasing market returns above what farmers would receive on an unsupported market. Included in the price-support program in this county are such major commodity programs as cotton, wheat, and feed grains.

Last year, also 9,645 acres of farmland were improved under the Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing arrangement. The total investment in conservation was about $160,000, with about half coming from the participating farmer and the balance from ACP.

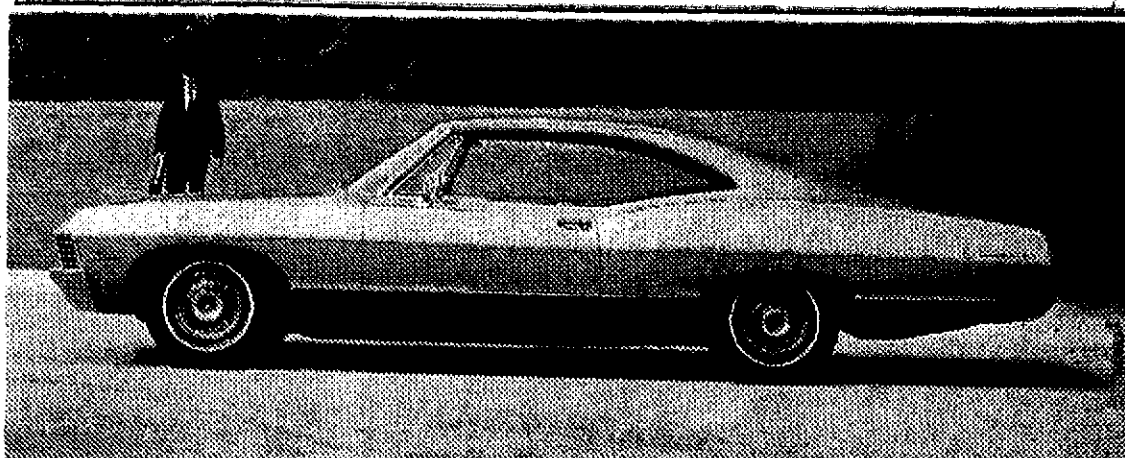

The Chairman pointed out that any local resident who is eligible to take part in an ASCS farm program may vote, and he may hold office as a committeeman regardless of race, color, creed, or national origin.

Further information regarding qualifications of committeemen is available at the ASCS county office.

Farmers who are eligible to vote in the community committee elections also have the right to nominate as candidates for committee membership any farmer who is eligible and willing to serve. Such petitions, each one nominating one farmer and signed by six or more eligible voters, may be filed at the county office any time before October 21, 1966. Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they wish. Additional nominations may be made by the incumbent ASC community and county committees. These committees, in their selection of nominees, will make every effort to see to it that their list of candidates reflects the racial composition of farmers of the county.

The election of ASC community committees throughout Hempstead County will be held by mail November 7 through November 18, 1966. Each community election will choose three community committeemen and two alternates. The regular members elected will serve as delegates to the county convention, where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee.

Phone Firm Can Borrow

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Newton County telephone company was told Monday to borrow funds from the Rural Electrification Administration in order to provide telephone service to the Mount Judea community.

The Public Service Commission told the Tri-County Telephone Co. at Jasper to borrow the funds as soon as possible. The firm said it would need additional facilities to provide the service.

'SELLING' RELIGION
SAN ANTONIO, Texas AP
G B Stanley minister of the San Pedro, Texas Church of Christ, has taken a sales training course so that he can "sell" his church's program more effectively. He says it works.

The professional sales course, he says, showed "how to find what a person needs and wants, what his dominant buying urge is — and then how to motivate him to want what you have to offer."

Using the techniques, he said, he has increased Sunday school attendance and church membership 50 per cent.

GIGANTIC JIGSAW PUZZLE covers two acres at Fulton, Mo., where workmen are attempting to reassemble, stone by stone, historic St. Mary Aldermanbury church shipped from England for reconstruction on the Westminster College campus as a memorial to Sir Winston Churchill. As a result of a shipping mixup in England, the stones arrived jumbled up instead of neatly sorted in boxes for opening as needed. It was on the Fulton campus that Churchill made his famed "Iron Curtain" speech.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Promising Treatments Relieve Kidney Problems

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTACT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Since the last time I discussed kidney stones in this column, some promising new treatments have been reported.
Two German doctors have found that by inserting a specially designed catheter into the kidney they can irrigate the kidney pelvis continuously for 15 to 20 hours daily. Three solutions are used one at a time and the patient is taught how and when to stop one solution and start another.

These solutions are introduced at body temperature.
The first combines a nonirri-tating detergent and sodium polyphosphate. It dissolves the outer layer of the stones and washes out any inflammatory products that may be in the kidney pelvis. The second solution is a combination of EDTA and an antibiotic. This dissolves the mineral inner core of the stones. The exact composition of this solution is varied according to the type of stones to be dissolved.

The third solution is a weak salt solution. Most recently formed stones are dissolved in about 20 hours but the irrigation is continued for several more hours to be on the safe side.

The disadvantages of this treatment are the length of time required, especially when the stones are old and hard.

Some of these take 800 hours to dissolve. Persons whose stones have been removed in this way are advised to have a kidney X-ray 6 months later to see whether there has been any further stone formation.
If new stones are diagnosed, prompt treatment insures that they can be dissolved quickly.

For persons with cystine stones in the kidney (only a small per cent of all those who have stones) another treatment is available. Penicil-lamine, a derivative of penicillin, taken by mouth will do the trick in 6 to 12 months.
Once this treatment is started, however, it must be continued indefinitely to prevent a recurrence. For this reason it is recommended only for those whose stone formation cannot be controlled by other means. In another column I will discuss the prevention of kidney stones.

Q—What causes pus in the urine? What is the best treatment?

A—Any infection in the kidneys or bladder will cause pus in the urine. Urinary an-tiseptics and antibiotics offer the best chance for cure but the treatment must often be prolonged and recurrences are common.

Reticent Rusk Has Reason

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Reticent Rusk, he could be called.
Dean Rusk, secretary of state since 1961, has had a couple of good reasons, including two talkative presidents, for not saying much, although this may be his natural condition.

Such talking as he does — speeches, testimony before Congress, news conferences occasionally — has the monotony of an echo. He avoids revelations and simply repeats the already well-known policies of the administration.

He does the same thing, hard as this may be to believe, at those so-called deep-deep background luncheons and dinners with certain Washington newsmen where the ground rules could keep him completely anonymous.

Nothing he says can be attributed to him, directly or indirectly, or to any official of government, even though left unnamed. It might seem that there, although he is pretty bald, he could let his hair down.

He doesn't.

It would be no wonder if Rusk made up his mind, when John F. Kennedy named him secretary of state, to be just the opposite of John Foster Dulles who was secretary for most of Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidency.

Dulles talked almost incessantly, was allowed by Eisenhower to make major foreign policy pronouncements, and had such a flamboyant streak that his statements sometimes caused more controversy than they settled.

But what he did he did deliberately: He used speeches, testimony before Congress and news conferences to get out his views on American foreign policy.

He not only was the main spokesman for that policy in Eisenhower's day but much of the time seemed to be making it, with Eisenhower blessing him from the background.

The Eisenhower-Dulles relationship was a happy arrangement. As president, Eisenhower had to make himself heard from time to time but he never ap-

Peace Passion Is a Bleak Pursuit

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Peace is our passion," President Johnson said more than a year ago, talking about Viet Nam. But it has been a bleak pursuit. Peace is still as elusive as a mouse on a beach. Things perked up, in bits and pieces, getting nowhere back in 1965 which was a very busy year for empty peace talk. In March of that year Johnson said the North Vietnamese must stop their intervention in South Viet Nam as a precondition for peace negotiations. And Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the North Vietnamese would have to give some indication they were prepared to stop what they were doing before any peace talks could begin. Then on April 7 in a major speech Johnson said the United States was ready for unconditional talks with North Viet Nam but at the very moment was saying it he laid down conditions. He said the essentials of any final settlement were "an independent South Viet Nam, securely guaranteed and able to shape its own relationships to all others, free from any outside interference, tied to no alliance, a military base for no country." The North Vietnamese gave this the ha-ha. They said Johnson's proposal smelled of poison gas and made a proposal of their own, a four-point program, from which they haven't deviated an inch since.

Among other things, Hanoi said, the United States must withdraw all its forces from South Viet Nam, although it wasn't clear whether the Communists meant before peace talks began or before there could be a settlement. And the third of the four points was a dilly: Hanoi said the internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves in accordance with the program of the Viet Cong, whom the South Vietnamese were fighting because they didn't want a Viet Cong program.

The U.S. State Department immediately took a dim view of Hanoi's ideas. At the moment, it seemed, sitting down to talk peace with the Viet Cong looked unthinkable, which is about what Hanoi was demanding. But later Rusk said the United States would be willing to hold discussions with the Viet Cong but those guerrillas could not be a primary part in negotiations. As time passed the American attitude on this changed.

Johnson said later this would not be an insurmountable problem. But nothing happened. Then late last year Johnson suspended the bombing of North Viet Nam targets while he sent his top emissaries to capitals around the world, talking peace. But the North Vietnamese didn't talk back.

And on Jan. 31, 1966, after a 36-day pause, Johnson ordered the bombing resumed. Later in the year he ordered the bombing stepped up, this time against North Viet Nam's oil depots. The pressure on him to find peace became intense.

For one thing, much of the world didn't like the war. A lot of Americans didn't like it. And the war was gorging itself on billions of American dollars which could be used at home.

Last week U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, made a plea for peace before that body and a couple of days later Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, made a proposal.

As a preliminary to negotiations, he said, the United States would stop bombing the North if it just got assurance that North Viet Nam would start cutting down on its war effort.

This looked like another American concession. Instead of wanting proof that North Viet Nam would pull back its troops if the United States stopped bombing, this country was willing to settle for assurances — although it wouldn't take long to find out if North Viet Nam was living up to its assurances.

But Russia quickly brushed this proposal aside. And North Viet Nam rejected it as hypocritical.

Replacements in South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korean President Chung Il-sang replaced his justice and finance ministers today and rejected the resignations of Premier Chung Il-kwon and the rest of his Cabinet.

Chung and his 16 ministers resigned last Thursday after an opposition lawmaker threw human excrement on the premier and four Cabinet members during an assembly discussion of a smuggling scandal involving a fertilizer factory.

Park said he held the finance and justice ministers responsible for the scandal over $111,000 worth of raw saccharine smuggled from Japan in the guise of machinery for a fertilizer company.

The assemblyman who threw the waste resigned and was arrested.

Refugees Costs U.S. Million Week

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A $1-million weekly tab lies ahead for U.S. taxpayers to look after an increased flow of refugees from a Cuban regime which reportedly costs the Soviet Union $1 million daily.

The Cuban Refugee Center, operated by the Health, Education and Welfare Department, said that expenditures have risen because of an airlift that brings 10 plane-loads of Cubans here weekly.

A refugee budget of $51 million for fiscal 1967, which began

July 1, has passed the House and received Senate committee approval after a hearing. It was reported headed for full Senate approval.

The budget is $8,400,000 higher than the past year. The 1966 fiscal year budget began at $30 million and was fattened by $12,600,000 on the strength of Castro's announcement just a year ago that he would let Cubans come here.

Since the airlift started Dec. 1, nearly 37,000 refugees have arrived. Nearly 4,000 and sometimes more than 4,000 arrive monthly, depending on plane capacity.

Widely published estimates place Russia's expenditure in keeping the Castro regime afloat at between $300 and $400 million annually.

Moderator campus report

By J. MARK LONO

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — He is found in Selma, Ala. and Sprout Hall, Berkeley. He sits in and speaks out. He is underrated and underestimated, but not understood. He is committed to the present and the future, while the past struggles to keep up with him.

He is the Student of the '60s.

It all started in February, 1960. A small group of Negro college students entered a department store in Greensboro, N.C., and were refused service at a lunch counter because they were black. Unlike past generations, they did not accept the badge of inferiority. They sat down and they stayed.

Those Negro students aroused support throughout the nation. On the campus, student concern in the problems of today was triggered and organized.

One of the first groups born in the '60s was the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), a loosely organized state-by-state clearinghouse for protest information and projects. The structure was shaky at best, and still is, but the esprit de corps of SNCC is strong and the organization appears to thrive on the conflict of continual confrontation with the white, segregationist power structure.

The National Student Association saw the potential for student involvement and sponsored a "Human Relations Seminar" that took place in Atlanta through the summer of 1961. The struggle to maintain human dignity was clearly becoming a chief concern of the student.

That fall, the Northern Student Movement (NSM) was founded and soon had projects going in Boston, New York, Chicago, Hartford, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Detroit and Washington. In each city at least 100 full-time students were tutoring Negro public school students in subjects inadequately taught in the formal curriculum. NSM has since broadened its program to include the organization of depressed masses into movements of their own leadership.

Study has turned to action in the '60s. Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) paused in their discussions to find ways to put ideas into practice. Formerly the Inter-collegiate Socialist Society (Upton Sinclair, Clarence Darrow, Sinclair Lewis), SDS was re-formed in 1962, at which time the Port Huron Statement defined its purposes.

In August, 1963, it set up the Economic Research and Action Project (ERAP), both to debate economic issues and to experiment with the use of students as organizers among the white poor.

Action erupted also in the West, where SLATE, a University of California at Berkeley student political party, sprang to national prominence via its involvement in protest demonstrations against the House Committee on Un-American Activities hearings in San Francisco.

At the same time, campus groups were organizing to express themselves about the arms race. The College Peace Union joined the Student Peace Union (SPU) in 1960 to form a stronger voice for peace. Harvard and Radcliffe, finding the national Student Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (Student SANE) too limiting, formed its peace voice, TOCSIN.

The year 1960 also saw the political right organized, a direct result of which was the strong student support for Barry Goldwater's 1964 campaign. The Young Americans for Freedom (YAF), now 30,000 members strong, grew out of a September, 1960, meeting of law students and college politicians at National Review editor William Buckley's estate in Sharon, Conn. Conservative politicians latched onto YAF as their "farm club," and gave it the support that has made it a strong force on many campuses.

These conflicting student political interests clashed in ways that could only result in greater political awareness in the college community. In 1960, the arena was the National Student Association Congress, where liberals tried to turn NSA attention from campus parking and dining problems to more universal political and economic issues.

Since 1960, the areas for student involvement have more clearly defined themselves. Civil rights is now an American institution, and students are a part of it. They have moved into the political wars with an impact that will not allow them to be ignored. They are deeply involved in tutorials and community action.

Most recently, they have triggered national debate on the Viet Nam war. The student organizations of the '60s make this possible. And, too, this decade has seen a second dramatic use of the young to provide both an outlet and an example for the student—the Peace Corps.

Strengthened with two wholly original uses of the young American — the fight for justice at home and the battle for better lives abroad — people both within and without the college community began to fuse the concept of the Peace Corps with pressing social problems in America. The ideas were brilliantly simple: Put the concerned student to work on those areas which captured his concern.

Summers do end, though, and students do go back to the campus. When they do, they are not yet ready to forsake their ideals, ignore injustice, knuckle under to an authoritarian power structure. They find at college the same plodding system that they found elsewhere, and they are impatient.

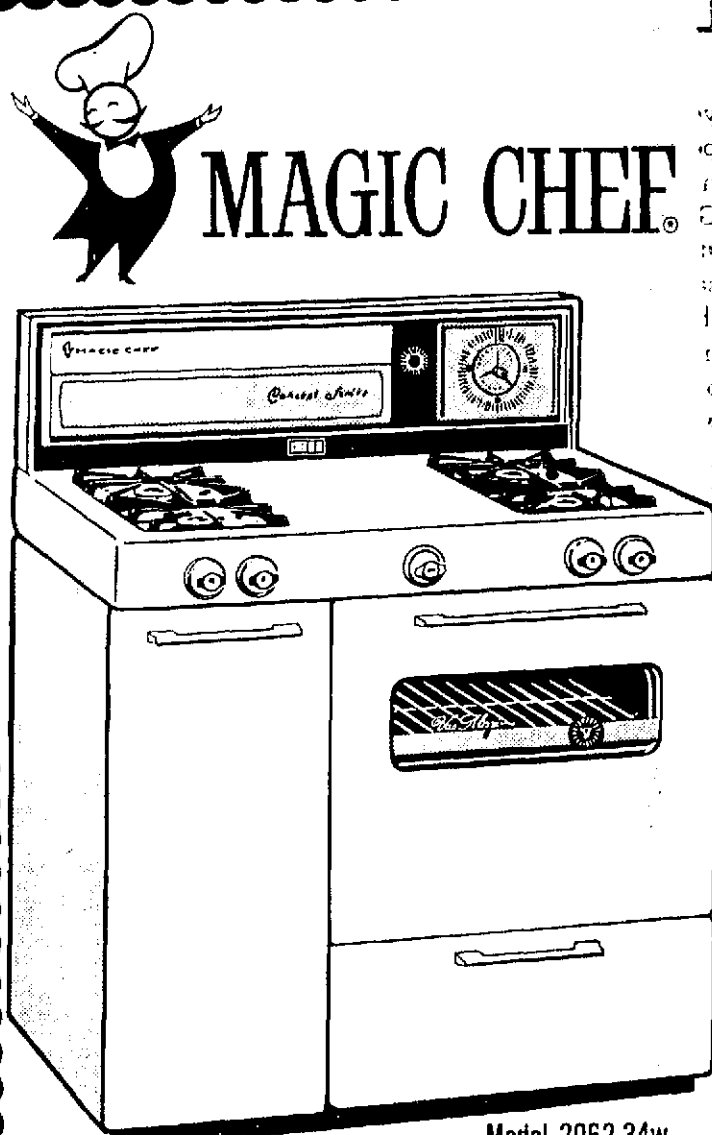

They are impatient with administrators who fire exciting teachers whose interests are clearly more with teaching than with "publishing." They are impatient with schools

Wednesday, September 26, 1966 which claim to be academic communities but limit the books to be read, the topics to be discussed and the speakers to be heard.

Like the students at Berkeley, they are impatient with the punch-card student staff fling that destroys dialogue and initiative. Every one has read enough about Berkeley to last him a lifetime, but few have done anything about it.

Students finally, are not that much unlike those of 25 years ago. Today's protesters probably would not have urged a Get-Out-Of-Europe policy if they were in college in the early '40s.

Kit Carson, frontiersman, was born Dec. 24, 1809.

How Come Liquor Is Issue in Two 'Dry' Counties?

There is grim humor in the Sept. 20th issue of the Nashville News which carries a Howard County Grand Jury report blaming the bootleg liquor problem of "dry" Howard county on equally "dry" Hempstead county.

Says the Howard County Grand Jury: "Evidence before the Jury discloses that a large part of the liquor traffic is due to sales of illegal liquor made in Hempstead county, Arkansas, in the vicinity of Ozan. This Grand Jury would be pleased to have any and all information and cooperation from private citizens and law enforcement officials in the stopping of this traffic."

Just because they are unhappy with the law enforcement picture under local option prohibition is no reason why two neighboring counties should blame each other for a condition that is inherent when you pass a law that can't possibly be enforced.

Liquor that is bonded and taxed is carried into both Howard and Hempstead in small quantities by private citizens every day. This is a perfectly legal purchase in "wet" Texarkana. What the Howard County Grand Jury is objecting to is the more serious problem of unbonded and untaxed "moonshine," manufactured in remote areas in defiance of federal and state revenue agents. Every "dry" county has its share, responsibility for which traces back to a fatuous electorate who handed enforcement officers an impossible task. "Moonshine" is not a very good drink. It doesn't sell well if legal and taxed liquor is locally available.

Furthermore, where liquor is legally sold there is close control of law violations. That's because the seller is known, is doing business at a fixed address, and can be found and held responsible.

But who knows where a "moonshiner" will be tomorrow — to answer for the crime of selling liquor to juveniles yesterday? This is the "loaded" situation the hypocritical voters of Hempstead and Howard handed the officers when they voted on the regulated sale of taxed liquor and the voters knew what they were doing at the time.

The Howard County Grand Jury has spoken. Maybe the next to speak will be the Grand Jury of "wet" Miller county. It could write an even more blistering report — about both Howard and Hempstead counties.

It could say: "Hempstead and Howard outlawed whisky — BUT KEPT THE TAX that we collect for them in Texarkana. Texarkana not only has to bear the burden of policing the sale of liquor to Hempstead and Howard county residents but also has to turn its liquor tax over to the Arkansas General Revenue Fund only to see it returned in part to the very counties that welcomed on their obligation to good government."

If this "wet" newspaper is ever invited to do so your editor will be pleased to help the Miller County Grand Jury write that report.

Fatigue of Astronaut Brings Study

By RONALD THOMPSON
AP Aerospace Writer
MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Plans for Gemini 12's lengthy, rocket-powered space walk have undergone a major revision as a result of the fatigue problem that plagued astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. outside Gemini 11.

Project officials scrubbed completely a bold Air Force-developed experiment that would have sent Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. jetting around the world with a sophisticated rocket pack on his back.

Aldrin's main assignment now will be to investigate some of the basic problems space walkers face, such as body positioning, simple work tasks and the need for restraint equipment. His stroll could last as long as two hours, about the same time originally planned.

Malvern Girl Is Queen of Stock Show

Last night in the Third District Livestock Show Coliseum Judy Toler of Malvern was named Queen of the Third District Show. First runnerup was Kay Lee of Arkadelphia and second runnerup was Sharon O'Neal of Texarkana.

Tonight marks the third of free events in the Coliseum. A Quarterhorse show got underway this morning and will continue throughout the day. The finals of the show will be held tonight. Thursday will be FFA Day and youths from all over the district will compete in judging. Thursday also marks the opening of the Rodeo phase of the show.

The rodeo is produced by Texoma Rodeo Co. of Madill, Okla., IRA approved and will be held each night through Saturday. Thursday is also designed to be school day and prices of all rides of the Sonny Myers Amusement Shows will be reduced for all school children until 6 p.m.

Police to Add Two Men and Cut Hours

Hope City Board of Directors last night authorized the Police Department to hire two additional men in order to change to 8-hour shifts. At present officers are working 60 hours per week. Starting Oct. 1 they will work 48 hours per week.

The group also gave Parks and Recreation Director Charles Gough authority to hire a full time assistant for the director and to hire a part time assistant for the Negro park director. The Board approved plans to repair 4th Street between Main and Walnut and authorized using of a building at the Air Port by the Hope Flying Club.

PTA Hears About School Traffic

Junior - Senior PTA held its first meeting of the year last night and Principal Gady Cathey listed some traffic regulations for students and parents to follow.

Parents are asked not to come after their children until 3:15 or after so buses will have time to load and leave.

Students are required to get a permit from the school office to drive their cars to school. No permit is allowed unless the student has an unrestricted driver's license; signed permission from parents and registered with the school office.

Any student who receives a traffic ticket forfeits his permit for an indefinite period.

Band Director Richard Keyton told of progress in music education. The band now has 39 members marching and 25 beginners and should increase to 60 or by next season and 75 the next. Mr. Keyton was enthusiastic about the band's future and complimentary of the Glee Club.

The next meet is Parents Night on Oct. 18.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A group of Argentine extremists, reported to be led by a woman, hijacked a passenger plane with 44 persons aboard and forced it to land in the British-owned Falkland Islands in the South Atlantic today. The aim apparently was to reassert Argentina's claim over the islands.

A source close to the reported hijackers said 17 men and their women leader "took the islands." But this was not immediately confirmed.

The hijacking was confirmed by government sources and officials of the state-owned Aerolineas Argentinas airline. They said a communique would be issued later.

Guards Called Out to Quell Negro Rioting in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Incensed because a white policeman killed a Negro youngster fleeing a stolen car, rioting Negroes smashed windows, started fires, looted, overturned vehicles and threw barrages of bricks Tuesday night in two San Francisco districts.

Rioting started in the Hunters Point District, where until now there has been no racial violence, and jumped hours later five miles across the city to the Fillmore District, where a near riot was suppressed last summer after a Negro patrolman stopped Negro youths from robbing two white couples.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called up 2,000 National Guardsmen and with Mayor John F. Shelley imposed a curfew that stopped the violence some four hours after it started.

Although tense, the city remained quiet when the curfew was lifted today at 6 a.m., ending the rioting 11 persons were treated at Mission Emergency Hospital but none was described as seriously injured.

Johnson Asks for a Space Agreement

By JIM STROTHMAN
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — President Johnson, declaring that "the security of all men may well be at stake," has made a personal plea to shake loose bogged-down United Nations' efforts toward a U.S.-Soviet agreement governing the use of outer space.

A space treaty is "a matter of the highest common interest," use of outer space.

A space treaty is "a matter of the highest common interest," the U.S. chief executive said while touring this spaceport with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard Tuesday.

"I earnestly hope the Soviet Union — whose space achievements have been great — will feel as we do that the rapid evolution of space technology makes early conclusion of a treaty governing the use of space a most urgent matter," Johnson said.

Major areas of disagreement between the United States and the Soviet Union in the United Nations space treaty efforts include reporting outer-space activities, equal access to each other's equipment and installations on the moon, and military hardware in space.

The United States proposes compulsory reporting of outer-space activities, while the Soviet Union wants voluntary reporting.

Soviet officials have accepted in principle a U.S. proposal that nations grant each other equal access to space vehicles, equipment and installations on the moon and other celestial bodies at all times, but Russia wants to make the timing of such access subject to an agreement among the parties concerned.

Faubus Still Talks Special Session

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus told the two men fighting to succeed him Tuesday night that he will leave an unprecedented amount of surplus funds for the incoming governor.

"That is," he quickly added, "if I don't call a special session and use part of it."

Faubus, Jim Johnson and Winthrop Rockefeller were all together for a banquet at the state Welfare Department's meeting.

It was the first time Johnson and Rockefeller had met in public since Johnson won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

They even shook hands. Faubus' failure to assure the two that he wouldn't call a special session brought varied reactions from Johnson and Rockefeller, according to a guest at the banquet.

The guest said Rockefeller laughed and Johnson smiled and shook his head.

A highlight of Faubus' speech was his announcement that a new Welfare Department budget, which has his blessings, includes a $1,500 annual increase in the salary of county welfare directors, a well as increases for other Welfare Department employees.

The new salary for directors would be $6,500, compared to $2,760 when he took office in 1955, Faubus said.

Johnson, who like Rockefeller made brief remarks to the about 850 Welfare Department employees at the banquet, said jokingly it appeared that Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moser had gathered the forces of his department to put pressure on the two candidates to go along with the proposed budget.

"I surrender, I'll go along with all these things," Johnson quipped.

Rockefeller praised Faubus, his opponent in 1964, for Welfare Department accomplishments in helping the aged and children. He pledged to continue working for progress in the welfare field.

Johnson called on those at the banquet to help him win the Nov. 8 general election against his Republican opponent.

Mrs. Johnson, one of her husband's most active campaigners, spoke to a group of women and later joined Johnson at the Welfare Department banquet.

She said that Arkansas Democrats should beware of Republican efforts to link them with the national Democratic Party.

"Our opponents will try to smear us by linking us to the mess we now have in Washington," she said, "but when they do, just remind them that the loyal Democrats in Arkansas don't go along with O'Brien's Great Society."

She addressed a meeting of the Little Rock Unit of the Arkansas Democratic Women's Club.

Johnson made a brief appearance at the meeting before going to the banquet. He said he had to speak elsewhere, but that he "couldn't resist coming here for a moment to tell you how much I love you."

Hurricane Kills 5 in Caribbean

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Hurricane Inez, a killer storm that left at least five dead and vast damage on the Caribbean Islands of Guadeloupe, raked Puerto Rico with gales today and churned relentlessly toward the densely populated Dominican Republic.

At the same time more than 1,000 miles to the east, the 10th tropical storm of the season, Judith, boiled up in the tropical Atlantic.

Puerto Rico, stung by biting winds as Inez approached, was warned to expect gusts of up to 70 miles an hour and flooding in low-lying areas.

The storm brought death to the French sugar-and-banana islands of Guadeloupe Tuesday.

Official reports to Paris said five persons were believed killed and many injured.

The storm's center was expected to come no closer than 60 or 80 miles to the south coast of Puerto Rico.

"Just where the storm will hit next is uncertain," said a Weather Bureau spokesman. "But she could easily hit Hispaniola and break up in the mountains."

Hispaniola—an island made up of the Dominican Republic and Haiti—is west of Puerto Rico. An early turn to the north would send Inez smashing into Ponce, Puerto Rico. Weathermen said a later northward movement was more likely.

This morning Inez was about 80 miles south southwest of St. Croix, Virgin Islands, and 130 miles southeast of San Juan. Miami, nearest U.S. point, was about 1,150 miles to the northwest.

The big storm churned westward at 15 miles an hour.

Reports Coup in Making in Dominican

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Reports here and abroad of an imminent coup look like part of an opposition plan to create an air of mutual distrust between President Joaquin Balaguer's government and military leaders.

By disrupting relations between the Dominican government and armed forces, the opposition hopes to promote a climate of political unrest such as led to the overthrow of ex-President Juan Bosch three years ago. Another objective is to frighten away foreign and local investment.

Responsible national figures and U.S. and other foreign diplomats give the scheme little chance of success, primarily because of the armed forces support of the government.

The more radical wing of Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party and extreme leftists are apparently behind the coup propaganda. The central theme is that right-wing extremists, some in the army, are plotting to overthrow Balaguer. Havana radio recently broadcast these reports.

The campaign was believed originally aimed at forcing the Balaguer government to request the inter-American peace force to remain in this country. This would have discredited Balaguer in some quarters as a fueled anti-U.S. propaganda.

While discounting the possibility of an imminent coup, observers here see some justification in fears of right-wing terrorism. But they point out that most of the terrorism and violence in Santo Domingo so far has occurred in that central part of the city once controlled by rebel and leftist forces. And most if not all of the clandestine weapons so far recovered by national police have been in homes of former rebels or leftists.

A Negro-Dominated Jury Acquits Man in Liuzzo Slaying

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A Negro-dominated jury has found a 43-year-old steelworker and member of the Ku Klux Klan innocent of a murder charge in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

A Circuit Court jury of eight Negroes and four white men took 85 minutes Tuesday night to reach its verdict of acquittal in the trial of Ku Klux Klansman Eugene Thomas for murder in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who died in a hail of gunfire from a passing auto on March 25, 1965, a few hours after the Selma-to-Montgomery march ended.

The verdict made Thomas the second member of the hooded order to win state court acquittal in the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

While the Detroit housewife was a participant in the march to dramatize Negro voting rights demands, no mention of her as a civil rights volunteer was made indirect testimony in the one-day trial. There was only one mention in the testimony of Thomas, a Bessemer steelworker, as a member of the Klan.

State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, who directed the prosecution for the state, expressed disappointment at the verdict. He called it a "complete breakdown of justice and law and order."

Thomas, who had listened attentively to the testimony which preceded the verdict, told newsmen he "got a fair trial."

The state closed its case without calling a paid witness for the FBI, Gary Thomas Rowe. He had testified in three previous trials that he was an eyewitness to the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

Rowe, a former Birmingham bartender who said he joined the Klan to get information to the FBI, testified he was in a car from which the fatal shot was fired, and that Thomas handed his gun to another Klansman, Colle LeRoy Wilkins, to do the shooting.

Wilkins' first trial in the century-old courthouse where Thomas was tried, ended in a deadlocked jury. His second trial last October ended in acquittal. The third defendant in the case, William Orville Eaton, died of a heart attack before he could be brought to trial in state court.

All three Klansmen however were convicted in U.S. District Court in Montgomery on conspiracy charges growing out of the Liuzzo killing. Their 10-year sentences are on appeal.

Flowers said he had decided against calling Rowe as a witness because he felt it might do the state's case more harm than good.

U. S. Bombing Error Kills 35 Villagers

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Marine planes veered about 3,000 yards from their strike zone and dropped 500-pound bombs by error Tuesday on a friendly Montagnard village. The explosions, on Tuesday on a friendly Montagnard village. The explosions killed 35 persons and wounded 16.

The village was Hon Ba, in northern Quang Ngai Province, where American Marines are campaigning in Operation Prairie to check the inflow of North Vietnamese troops across the old demilitarized zone blanketing the frontier.

The bombs and a wind-driven fire leveled 120 homes, about three-fourths of the huts making up the village.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine bombers missed their target and dropped 500-pound bombs by error Tuesday on a friendly village occupied by Vietnamese forces and their families.

A U.S. military spokesman said the mistake bombing killed 28 soldiers and civilians and wounded 17. The bombs also wrecked about 100 huts in the village in the northern province of Quang Ngai, 350 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command also disclosed that American troops have launched four new search-and-destroy operations and are operating in the Mekong Delta for the first time in the Viet Nam war. Until now the huge delta rice bowl — much of it now under deep flood waters — has been an area of operations solely for South Vietnamese troops.

Only light contact with the enemy was reported in the four new operations, which were launched earlier this month but were not announced until today.

In other war developments, a reconnaissance company of South Vietnamese troops uncovered a huge cache of Viet Cong ammunition and explosives 38 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. authorities began an immediate investigation of the Marine bombing of the friendly village, and Marine helicopters flew the wounded to a government hospital in nearby Quang Ngai City.

Many of the casualties were Montagnards, mountain tribesmen from whose ranks U.S. special forces teams have drawn guerrillas to fight the Communists.

U.S. rescue and civic assistance teams were sent to the village to begin relief work.

Belvedere '67 Offers Two New Models

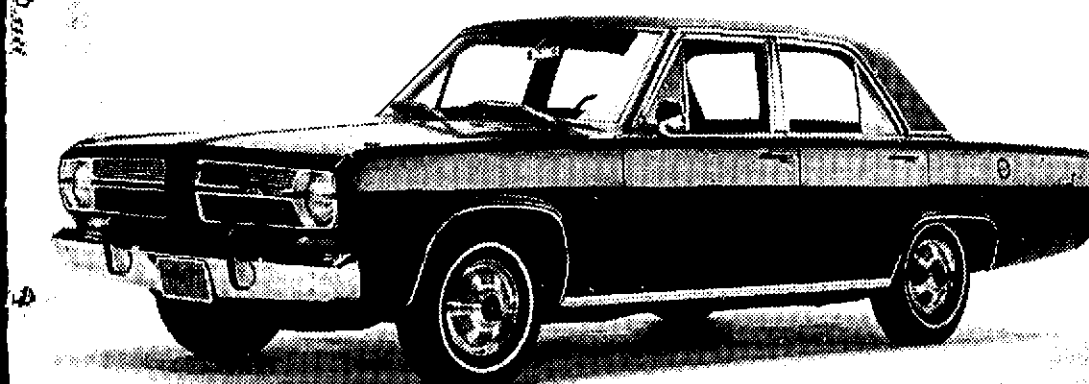

The Belvedere line, which in recent years has become recognized as the top performer in its price range, offers two new models for 1967, the high-performance GTX and the economy two-seat Belvedere station wagon. Many mechanical and safety improvements appear throughout the new line, which includes 22 six-cylinder and V-8 models on a 116-inch wheelbase for all cars except station wagons, which have a 117-inch wheelbase. The GTX, shown above, available as either a convertible or two-door hardtop, has been designed from the ground up as an integrated performance package. There are three other series, Belvedere I and II and Satellite. A new impact-absorbing steering column is standard equipment. Other safety features include dual braking, a hazard warning light system, and larger inside rearview mirrors. Seat belts with automatic retractors are standard.

1967 Plymouth Fury Has Big Car Look

A striking all-new exterior appearance with flowing styling along with three new hardtop roofs combine to give the Plymouth Fury a distinctive big car look for 1967. The design of the new Fury emphasizes its size (213.1 inches long on a 119-inch wheelbase), and clearly identifies it as the luxury car in the conventional-size, low-price field. In the Fury line there are 25 models in five series—Fury I, II, III, Sport Fury and V I P, with a choice of five engines. The addition of three new rooflines, each with its own distinctive silhouette, gives hardtop models a completely different look. New safety features include an impact-absorbing steering column, dual braking, a deep, safety-padded instrument panel and a hazard warning light system. All four-door hardtops and some two-door hardtops have a new flow-through ventilation system as standard. Shown is the Sport Fury two-door Fast Top.

Valiant for '67 is True Economy Car

Plymouth Valiant for 1967 has an all-new body, a two-inch longer wheelbase, and contains many improvements for economy, safety and performance. As Plymouth's entrant in the compact car field, Valiant is designed as a true economy car with low purchase price, economical operation and inexpensive upkeep. The model lineup for 1967 is changed. This year there are eight models in two series, V-100 and Signet. Models will be two- or four-door sedans with Six or V-8 engines. Safety features include a new energy absorbing steering column, dual braking, longer windshield wiper blades and safety inside door handles. Interiors from dash panel to rear window are all newly designed. While external dimensions approximate 1966, the new Valiant offers more back seat room. Shown is the 1967 Signet four-door sedan.

Dear Helen: We have a wealthy relative who sends us clothes and daughters have outgrown. We appreciate this very much, but, when they're the shoddiest things you ever saw, bought at the cheapest stores. No wonder they become hand me downs so they've about had it, even though I know they're sometimes almost new.

Would it be proper for me to suggest to my relative that you're dead in the long run if you smart?

Dear Poor but Smart: Under these circumstances it would be smart to keep your mouth shut! — H.

Dear Helen: Please explain! What is a "rice bag party"? You mentioned it in a summer column in connection with a wedding, and I must be an old square, as I've never heard neighbors and friends and we'd DON'T GET IT!

Dear GDI: Don't feel badly — I'd never heard of a rice bag party either until first question came in my mail. But my correspondent assumed I had, and when I called a wedding consultant, she implied everybody has them, so I figured I was "the old square."

Here's the scoop: So that each guest may have a chance to pelt the bride and groom, little squares of cloth are each filled with about a teaspoonful of uncooked rice, tied loosely with ribbon and handed out at the door of the church. As the couple walks down the steps, everyone lets fly with the rice bags which, of course, break open.

Where does the party fit in? Well someone has to fill the bags and it goes lots faster if you mix work with play. As I said before, this may be combined with a bridal shower, if the party is not given by a close relative. — H.

Dear Helen: My husband wants to quit his job and enroll full-time at the university because he will get through faster than by going nights. I don't want to leave our three-year-old son and go to work and, besides, I don't think I could support us all. I love being a homemaker but he's determined, and neither the priest nor his parents will talk to him, as he won't listen to them. Please help. — Mrs. X

Dear Mrs. X: Has your husband considered applying for a student loan? This, with part-time work, plus perhaps what you could pick up at odd jobs, would see him through.

Don't make his ambition seem selfish, but do insist that you two work out a budget, have jobs lined up, and know exactly how you'll manage in the next few years. Sacrificing for a goal can be fun, if you know how to pull together. — H.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LORRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the television networks were busy Monday with a familiar sport — the ratings game. The subject was Sunday night's three-hour broadcast by ABC of the 1957 film, "The Bridge on the River Kwai" which, according to two audience surveys, rolled up an enormous viewing audience.

ABC, which reportedly paid $2 million for rights to broadcast the hit movie two times, was spreading the word that an overnight report by Trendex, made by telephone checks in 26 major markets, estimated the audience size for the first broadcast at around 45 million viewers.

NBC, on the other hand, quoted an Arbitron survey, based on a nationwide audience sample, which projected the size of the audience at about 34 million.

No matter which survey was used, it was obvious that an enormous segment of the viewing public deliberately chose to see the long film and stayed with it in numbers usually reserved for special favorites like the Miss America Pageant and the Oscar Awards show.

Programs which normally have large audiences — "Bonanza," Ed Sullivan's variety show and Walt Disney's hour suffered sharp drops in ratings. Some shows apparently had

More Cargo Volume in Rebel Wagon

Rear cargo volume has been increased almost 25 per cent in the all-new Rambler Rebel station wagons for 1967. Important improvements also have been made in tailgate opening dimensions which are nearly two inches wider and three inches higher than on the comparable 1966 wagons. The lower-hinge drop tailgate or side-hinged tailgate door are offered at no difference in price on Rebel two-seat wagons. The three-seat model features an electric window on the tailgate door as standard equipment. A roof-top travel rack is standard on Rebel wagons.

Power Top Standard on Rogue Convertible

A power-operated top is standard on the new 232 cubic inch six, rated at 145-horsepower with one-barrel and 155-horsepower with two-barrel carburetor, and a 290 cubic inch V-8, rated at 200-horsepower with two-barrel and 225-horsepower with four-barrel carburetor. A four-speed transmission is available with V-8's.

Marlin Longer, Wider, Lower for 1967

American Motors' 1967 Marlin fastback is longer, wider and lower than its 1966 counterpart, yet retains its distinctive full-fastback styling and semi-elliptical side window openings. The wheelbase has been increased from 112 to 118 inches, permitting an increase of about six and one-half inches in over-all length of the Marlin. Most of the added inches are in front with the longer hood helping to accentuate the fastback styling. In addition, the new Marlin is four inches wider to provide an important increase in shoulder room and in door thickness.

All-New Styling for Ambassador DPL

Two "up-sweep" horizontal paint stripes at the belt line add distinction to the all-new 1967 Ambassador DPL hardtop and convertible models. The DPL models also have "rally" turn signal-park lights in the grille instead of in the front bumper to differentiate them from other Ambassador models. The wheelbase of the Ambassador line has been increased from 116 to 118 inches, resulting in an increase of two and one-half inches in over-all length of hardtops, convertibles and sedans, and four inches for station wagons.

No Formula Found Yet to End Wars

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Johnson the happy condition would be thunderous applause both in the flesh and in public opinion polls.

In his recent trips to the East and Midwest he found conditions heartening for a politician:

Big crowds, cheers, and a lot of handshaking, which seems important to him.

But in the past month two of the biggest opinion polls showed a drop in general approval of Johnson. His standing in the polls slipped from 54 to 56 per cent in midsummer to 50 or 51 per cent.

November's congressional elections may be taken as another barometer of the public attitude toward him. But they should not be considered an absolute.

The present Democratic-run Congress of 1965-66 under Johnson's prodding set a performance record in 1965 but did much less this year, partly because he had less influence this year.

If the Democrats suffer big losses in November — Republicans predict a gain of 40 to 50 House seats — Johnson will have an even tougher job of getting his programs through in 1967 and 1968.

Big Republican gains would be interpreted by some, particularly Republicans, as a loss of confidence in Johnson. This would not be necessarily so, for a couple of reasons.

The in-party traditionally loses some seats in an off-year election like this one. And then there are the cases of Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

For six of Eisenhower's eight White House years the voters gave the Democrats control of Congress while overwhelmingly endorsing Eisenhower and giving him two terms.

In 1946, seventeen months after Truman succeeded to the presidency, the Republicans won control of Congress for the first time since the early 1930s. Then in 1948 the voters elected Truman over New York's Thomas E. Dewey.

The polls indicate dwindling confidence in Johnson in such fields as civil rights, the economy and labor-management relations. Apparently he still has public support on the war in Viet Nam.

Thus his trouble seems to be in handling domestic problems. But there may be another reason for loss of confidence not disclosed in the polls: a public feeling, not necessarily conscious, that Johnson has lost his zip.

He has not displayed in 1966 the same bang-bang decisiveness and endless energy he showed in 1965. For example: His sudden action in sending troops to the Dominican Republic in 1965 to thwart, as he said, a Communist coup.

At that time, three times within a week, he went on television to explain his actions. He repeatedly bounced on and off of television in 1965. He has done it much less in 1966, and that disappearance from the public eye may have hurt him.

And this year, with inflation threatening, Johnson hemmed and hawed for months before asking Congress to suspend the 7 per cent tax subsidy businesses get for capital outlays.

And he was anything but a vigorous leader when the machinists' strike shut down airlines for months and crippled public travel. As a result the administration's wage-price guidelines were smashed and haven't yet been restored in any tangible form.

Although Johnson devoted one whole speech this year to race relations, calling for restraint, his leadership here seemed far less than might appear called for as racial riots spread.

If Johnson in 1965 gave the impression of dashing with great self-assurance through the labyrinths of office, this year he has often seemed like a man on tip-toe.

MADISON, Ill. (AP) — Madison's old "Chain of Rocks" bridge across the Mississippi has become surplus property since the new Interstate 270 bridge opened this summer.

The new bridge, located a few hundred yards upstream, is free and Mayor Stephen Maestas asks, "Who is going to give us a quarter?" to use the narrow, 30-year-old bridge.

Only about 1,200 cars use the bridge daily. Another 12,000 to 14,000 cars now travel the new, four-lane bridge.

Study Planned on River

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Fluorescent red dye to study water pollution will be injected next week at 10 points along an 800-mile section of the Missouri River.

State agencies in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, as well as the U.S. Geological Survey, Weather Bureau and Corps of Engineers are taking part in the experiment.

Homyk said the purpose of the red dye will be to determine how long it takes for pollutants to dilute and the time-of-travel of contaminants down the river.

Schedule of LBJ Clear for Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Johnson's schedule is clear of any political events at this time — a month and a half before the November elections.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked about political campaign plans for the coming weeks for Johnson.

"It is an honest statement to make at this moment," Moyers said, "that he has no plans whatever. There is no event on his schedule at this time."

Obviously, Moyers added, the President has hundreds of invitations for appearances and speeches. But he said none has been accepted.

A reporter wanted to know whether any congressmen had asked Johnson to campaign for them in the light of reports that some members of Congress didn't want the President to do so. Moyers said a number of congressmen had suggested if President come to their districts.

On occasion, Johnson has said he hoped to go visiting in all 50 states before the leaves turned brown.

On other political points:

— Moyers said he had not seen anything to lead him to confirm a columnist's report that the President wants Democratic fund-raising dinners halted.

— The press secretary referred to presidential assistant George Christian, who was on the scene, whether Johnson had done anything over the weekend in Texas to try to heal a breach between conservative and liberal Democrats in the state.

"I don't think it was a political weekend at all," Christian said.

THE BORN LOSER

By ART SANSON

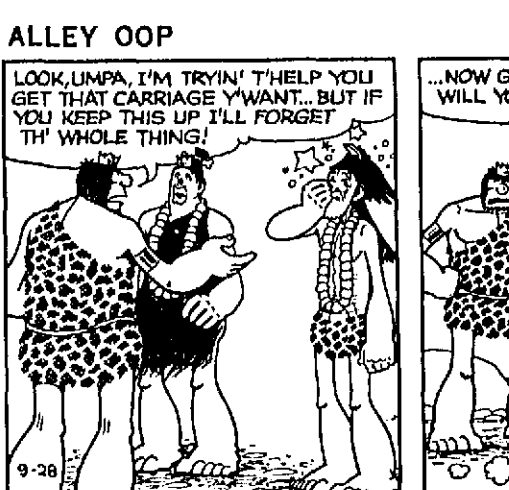

The brewing industry in the United States, which produces about 90 million barrels of beer a year, owes much to the founding fathers and early colonial patriots. William Penn built the first brewery in Pennsylvania in 1683. Samuel Adams, the "Father of the Revolution," was a brewer. Others who fostered the industry include Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Benjamin Rush, James Madison and George Washington, who had his own brewery at Mount Vernon.

Jim points out: "Today's hand might well be entitled 'A tale of two deuces.'"
Oswald: "Possibly even 'A tale of three deuces.' West opens the king of hearts. East overtakes with the ace and leads back deuce No. 1. The club deuce."
Jim: "That deuce isn't too important. It would be easy for declarer to recognize whatever club East led back as a singleton. The important deuces come into play later."
Oswald: "South wins the club in dummy and recognizes that East's plan is to win the first spade lead and put his partner in with a heart and get a club ruff. He works out a plan to foil this by leading the queen of diamonds from dummy."
Jim: "East covers with the king. South wins with the ace and leads back the deuce of diamonds. He plans to discard dummy's other heart on that deuce of diamonds. East will win but won't have any way to put his partner on lead."
Oswald: "Unfortunately for South's strategy West is not painted on his chair. West counters this plot by simply playing the deuce of spades on the deuce of diamonds."
Jim: "At this point South is helpless. He can't gain by discarding dummy's second heart. West will be on lead with that deuce of trumps."
Oswald: "All West can do is to overruff; lead a trump and hope. But his hopes aren't going to be realized. East will clatter up with the ace and put his partner in with the heart. Then West will lead a club and night will fall on declarer."

A UNIQUE GRILLE and wide lower body stripe highlight the fresh styling of the 1967 Dodge Coronet 2-door hardtop shown above. Coronet offers its new look for 1967 in 26 separate models, all featuring bumper-recessed parking and backup lights.

LEADING THE DODGE LINE for 1967 are the distinguished Monaco, above, available in six separate models, and the popular Polara, largest in its price class. Polara is offered in nine models, including the Polara 500 2-door hardtop, below.

COMPLETELY NEW FOR 1967, and still the largest of the compacts is the fresh, sporty Dodge Dart. Shown above are the premium Dart GT convertible and 2-door hardtop. All 12 Dart models for 1967 offer many new safety and convenience features.

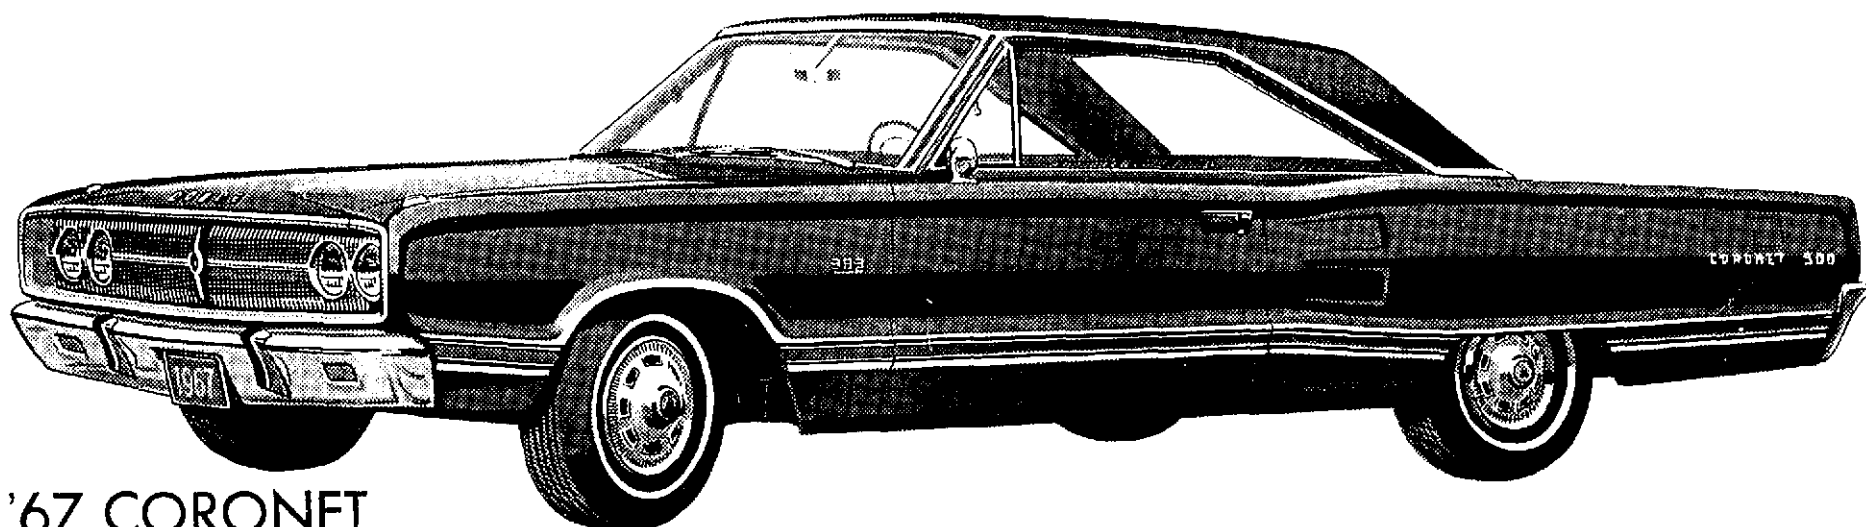

STAKES WITH STAYING POWER—Dodge offers three stake truck models with maximum GVW ratings ranging from 5,200 to 10,000 pounds, with payload allowance to 5,240 pounds. A favorite choice is the D-300 shown above with a 9-foot body on a 133-inch wheelbase. Standard is the 140-h.p. Slant Six engine. Extra power is available in the 210-hp V8 or 258-hp V8. Dual rear wheels are optional. Dodge also offers two 4-wheel drive models with 7-foot or 9-foot stake bodies.
